

TERNION
MERCHANT SERVICES

Who's going to get this money - You, or your current processor?

The New York Times

Fed Halves Debit Card Bank Fees

By Edward Wyatt

Published June 29, 2011

WASHINGTON - Fees paid by retailers to banks for debit card purchases will be cut in half after the Federal Reserve votes Wednesday, June 28th to cap charges. The new rules will go into effect October 1st.

Congress has recently passed the Durbin Amendment which is a landmark decision. This is the first time we have ever seen this large of a reduction in credit card processing costs. These new mandated lower costs are effective for 50 - 70% of the cards you accept.

Unlike many processors that have decided NOT to pass these savings along to their customers, Ternion Merchant Services is offering an exclusive program to lock in your savings from the new law now!

Service Guarantee

If you are not completely satisfied, there's no risk or obligations. You can cancel your service, at anytime, with no penalty or termination fee.

www.TernionMerchantServices.com

www.FaceBook.com/TernionMerchantServices